HAPPY NEW YEAR

Martin Luther King's Birthday is January 19th
Celebrate by:

Decorate with Many Colors : What's a birthday without decorations? Here's a great activity to do with younger children: Make the classic paper chains using black, white, red, yellow, and brown construction paper to represent the various skin tones found across our nation. Show kids the symbolism behind the craft: "Each link represents a hand, and our chain reminds us that Dr. King joined hands with people of all colors when he marched for freedom." A variation on this theme: Children can trace their own hands, then color them in using different skin-tone shaded crayons.

Free Books for Head Start Children

Each month at the Head Start Parent Committee meetings, a new book is given to every Head Start child (or parent/guardian) who attends. This is a great way to add books to your family library for your child's enjoyment. Please come and join other Head Start parents at your school site's monthly parent
